

Commercial Photography

“showing your product with greatest impact”

Commercial photography provides you with an exceptional image of your products, services or facilities that your customers can actually relate to.

Often companies rely on images from stock agencies that show nothing of what you do or have and therefore provide a false picture of your product or services. People want to see the real thing. We can provide a professional image of that real thing that causes people to want your product and encourages them to buy it from you.

Tom has been photographing commercial images for decades. He only provides the best images that money can buy and is inventive, flexible, innovative and complete in his approach to product photography. No job is too big or too small.

The prices begin at $149 + GST for small product sessions which include lightbox photographic techniques to reduce shadows.

On site larger objects can be lit and shot beginning at $499 per session using professional lighting techniques resulting in a full resolution digital file that can be used anywhere.
